

- 1 Capacity analyses indicate the need for two 12-foot-wide travel lanes in each direction. The new road will also include minimum 8-foot outside shoulders.
- 2 This section would be undivided with transitions to accommodate left turn lanes at intersections.
- 3 Most side slopes would be reasonably narrow. However, wider side slopes would be required to accommodate up to 110 feet of elevation difference on Alternatives 1 and 2.